

A Martian Syllabary

Being Modern Martian, that is, Ancient and Recent Martian together
By Christopher Fulkerson

For each syllable to be followed by an -l vowel, an apostrophe sign after the keystrokes should suffice. So, the keystroke for "Edge" would be A1; the keystrokes for Edgei would be A1'. The -s ending is a gentler form of S, so it might use a similar symbol. It may be that other similar expedients be added for a few other sounds. In transliterating the sounds, the -y ending after many sounds in Recent Martian would be some kind of enya or tilda over the syllable; but I don't know how to get these effects from my keyboard
